

1. Interim management (effecton Consulting GmbH)

The acquisition of new managers should not take place under time pressure given the importance and sensitivity of these positions in a company. Rather, they must be carried out taking into consideration all the qualifications of the applicants as well as all legislative frameworks. Therefore, in today's world of work finding highly qualified managers always requires a certain transitional period.

Due to effecton Consulting GmbH's existing specialist knowledge, which is based on many years of successful leadership responsibilities in various departments of reputable companies in the automobile industry, we can quickly and easily present interim management for our clients. effecton Consulting GmbH can fall back on the following successful interim activities:

- Operational, technical and commercial management of production plant networks including executive functions
- Technical and commercial management of production plants
- Development and management of procurement areas
- Development and management of sales areas
- Management of production areas
- Management of logistics areas
- Management of quality areas
- Scheduling and production control
- Development and management of logistics planning areas
- Development and implementation of container management in the dispatch areas.

effecton Consulting GmbH can provide skilled and experienced managers for its clients at short notice until a qualified successor is found and trained. Also the establishment of new functional areas can be operated or supported by effecton Consulting GmbH.
